ON PENALTY FOR VOLSBoles Expected to Complete
Basketball Schedule
For Year

Interest in the realm of Southern Conference athletics today turns to Chapel Hill, North Carolina, where officials of the conference are holding their annual general session. Kentucky is represented by three men outstanding in their work to promote sports at the university—S. A. "Daddy" Boles, Coach Harry Gamage and Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, secretary-treasurer of the loop, all of whom left Lexington Wednesday night to attend preliminary sessions of the meeting.

Other than speculation concerning possible retributive action on the part of the conference delegates toward the University of Tennessee for violating a conference rule prohibiting freshman football practice prior to the official opening of school, only routine business is expected to come before the general session. It has been indicated that several schools in the organization feel that Tennessee deliberately took advantage of the peace offering of the conference. They may take action against the offending institution, similar to the one used by the Volunteers to escape a penalty—that the construction put on the executive committee's ruling by Tennessee was not the one given it by members of the committee investigating the situation.

If action is taken and should Tennessee be suspended, the action will not prohibit Kentucky playing the orange and white next year. It will not apply to schedules already compiled, but, of course, such games would not be counted in the conference standing of teams playing the Volunteers.

There is a possibility that committees will consider the limitation schedules for members of the Southern Conference at the meeting today and Saturday. At the annual football banquet held Thursday, December 4, at the Lafayette hotel, Doctor Funkhouser in an address to the assembly stated that the time is nearing rapidly when conference teams will be limited to a schedule of eight, nine or ten games per season.

Kentucky, he said, is recognized as being one of the few teams in the South with the same schedule year after year. Modern emphasis on football, he stated, is toward limitation in the number of games due to the great mental and physical stress the sport places on players.

The Kentucky delegates to the meeting will be busy talking and thinking "Daddy" Boles, he said, is expected to complete the basketball card for the year and Coach Gamage may add a game or two to the Wildcat football schedule for 1931.

Doctor Funkhouser will be occupied with general conference business. They are expected to return to Lexington sometime Sunday.

Phi Beta to Sing
Christmas Carols
Before Holidays

Miss Emily Hardin, president of Phi Beta, woman's professional, musical and dramatic fraternity, announces that the annual tradition of singing Christmas carols early in the morning on the day before students leave for the holidays, Saturday, Dec. 20, will be observed. The group will sing at the dormitories, and homes of prominent university faculty members and friends. It is the custom of the fraternity to hold a Christmas breakfast at one of the hotels, after the caroling, and this year, the breakfast will be held at the Lafayette hotel. Miss Mildred Little is in charge of arrangements for the affair, which will be attended by several friends and patrons of Phi Beta.

At a meeting of the fraternity Monday afternoon in Patterson hall, it was decided that the Phi Beta octette, which has appeared at several programs recently, will broadcast Christmas carols from the extension studio of WHAS at 1 o'clock on Christmas day.

Y. W. C. A. Will Give Christmas Bazaar

The Y. W. C. A. is promoting a Christmas bazaar, today from 3 to 6 o'clock at Patterson hall. Christmas novelties, candies, and cake will be on sale, and the money from these will be used for charitable purposes mainly.

Miss Martha Carleton of the Y. W. C. A. senior cabinet will supervise the bazaar. She will be assisted by members of the freshman cabinet who will take charge of the various booths. Each booth will represent a country where Y. W. C. A. work is being carried on, and the girls in charge will be dressed in the native costumes of countries. An unusual program has been planned for the afternoon.

The advisory board of the Y. W. C. A. and the Woman's club of the university are assisting with the bazaar.

IS WOOD'S PLEAProfessor From Columbia University Discusses Importance of Individual Education

Dr. Ben D. Wood, of Columbia University, considered one of the best authorities in the country on measurement in higher education, spoke to students and faculty on Monday afternoon, December 8, in the lecture room at McVey hall. His lecture which was illustrated with lantern slides, was on the subject of "Problems in Measurement in Higher Education."

Dr. Wood described in some detail the studies which have been carried on at the University of Pennsylvania in relation to the problems of higher education. These studies, carried out extensively with tests and experiments, have been going on for six or eight years under the leadership of Dr. Wood. The test given in this connection was a general culture test consisting of 35 questions and was given to the college seniors of a selected group of colleges.

The theme of Dr. Wood's address was the importance of the individual in higher education. He pleaded for a better understanding and closer association between the student and the professor, he decried undue emphasis on restrictive methods and "red tape." "Work with human nature instead of against," was his recommendation to college professors. By means of the lantern slide he showed some of the startling results that have been obtained through his series of tests, and showed how it is possible to obtain a degree from many colleges without any actual education. In all these he showed the importance of the quality of the individual to be worthy of the greatest consideration.

Students Speak
Before Political Science Forum

The Political Science Forum met last Monday with Leroy Combs, vice-president, presiding. There were about twenty-five persons present and talks were given by two majors in the department of Political Science.

Herald D. Schimmel spoke on "Implications of the Congressional Elections." By carefully prepared figures and statistics he showed that the Democrats composed a majority of the newly elected seventy-second Congress. Of the thirty-three states electing governors, eight Democrats replaced Republicans, and one Republican and one Farmer-Laborer replaced Democrats. "According to Mr. J. J. Shouse, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, this is a mere forecast of the next presidential election." The Republicans say that the Democratic landslide is due to "crazy-quilt" conditions (differences in opinion among the Republicans in the various sections) which exist.

Everett Veirs spoke on the "Hoover program" as obtained from Pres. Hoover's address to Congress. The president's address concerned the economic depression, which he attributed to over-speculation, over-production, method of sale of Russian wheat, and the drought.

Forensic Affair in Memorial Hall

The University of Kentucky debating team in its fifth international debate at 8 o'clock last night met a team of German university students in Memorial hall. The subject of the debate was, "Is the Foreign Incitement of American Culture Justified?"

The German team, composed of Hans Juergen Graf Blumenthal and Herbert Schaumann, argued the negative side of the question and exhibited a force and mastery coming from wide experience in the art of argumentation. Richard Weaver and Sidney Schell defended the affirmative for Kentucky. President Frank L. McVey presided at the debate.

Count Blumenthal is a student at the University of Munich and is a member of the Deutsche Studentenschaft. He has also studied at Potsdam, Muenchen, and Koenigsberg. He is 23 years old. Mr. Schaumann, 29 years old, was winner of the second prize when chosen for the international debating team in Washington. He is a student of philosophy and literature at the University of Berlin.

Richard Weaver has taken part in about 60 debates during his three years in public speaking at the university. He is a member of the International Debate team in 1928 which met the team of British university women. Sidney Schell has appeared in about 15 debates during the last two years experience at the university.

Dean Anderson
Sits as Model
Of Medal Award

Dean F. Paul Anderson, College of Engineering, returned Wednesday morning from New York where he attended the national power show held at the Grand Central Palace. He also visited Newark, New Jersey, where he addressed the Carrier Engineering corporation, and Philadelphia where he spoke to the Kentucky Alumni club at the Engineers' club of that city.

While Dean Anderson was in the east he sat three times for the famous sculptor, John Swanson, who is making a clay model from which the dies of the Paul Anderson medal of award will be struck. This medal was established by the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers last January in Philadelphia, and is to be awarded yearly to the man chosen by their committee as having done the most outstanding work in the field of heating, ventilating, and air conditioning during the preceding year.

The society named the medal in honor of Dean Anderson because he has trained more men in this field than any other man in America and carries on experimentation in this line. The first award of the medal will be made the last week of January, 1931, in Pittsburgh, at the annual meeting of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers.

The popularity of the publication has increased and decreased in proportion to the way in which the idiosyncrasies of its staff members and their senses of humor appealed to the students. The trainers are hoping that with the publication of the coming issue the "evil kitty," the "obnoxious Kat," or whatever else he may come to be called, will be established more firmly than ever upon sharp claws.

Cosmopolitan Club

Dinner Meeting

The International Relations club entertained with a dinner meeting in the University Commons at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday night. The members of the Cosmopolitan club, composed of foreign students at the university, were guests at the dinner. Doctor McVey presided and introduced the members of the Cosmopolitan club to the club, telling the country each one represented.

At the conclusion of the dinner Dr. Amry Vandenberg, a member of the political science department of the university delivered an address on Colonial Administration. He said in part:

"Since the first colonies were established 400 years ago, there have been involved two policies of administration, that of assimilation, such as France has employed, and the autonomous method, as employed in the Dutch East Indies. Both systems have problems of public health, education, differences in language, land ownership, inter-racial marriage, taxation, forced or contract labor, double codes of law, and stand of mother country on the control of colonial commerce and the open or closed door in regard to raw materials produced for foreign consumption, and many other problems."

Work on this presentation was begun in July. Among the members of the choir are the following university people: Dorothy Day, Mollie Mack Offutt, Mary Atkins, Mary Alice Salyers, Lenora Howe, Mrs. R. McCracken, Alice Moss, Mrs. Charles Bailey, Mrs. Leonard Lan Banker White, Harold Ashley, David Young, Foster Peyton, Gordon Lisaboy, Howard Williams, Beattie Davis, B. P. Ramsay, Victor Portmann, and Abner W. Kelley. Of this group six are members of Phi Beta, university musical sorority, and one is a member of Phi Mu Alpha, musical fraternity.

SuKy may not have any "Fuzzy," but Sigma Delta Chi, men's professional journalistic fraternity still has a Kat; This capricious Felix has not hanged himself by the neck in any sorority house or any other kind of house for that matter, nor is he likely to do so in the near future. In fact, he is very anxious to inform students and faculty members of the university that he is very much alive, and is likely to be much more alive than usual when he is released at the initial basketball game next week.

The members of Sigma Delta Chi are promising a bigger and better Kat. They are particularly anxious that the members of the student body and faculty examine this product of their journalistic endeavors from claws to meow. Copies will be on sale throughout the campus on the day of the Georgetown game and will be available at the gymnasium during the game.

The Kampus Kat, otherwise known by the name, "the evil kitty," the "feline tattler," or whatever obnoxious and uncompromising titles, was born on the university campus in the spring of 1928, shortly after the local chapter of Sigma Delta Chi received its charter. The sponsoring of such a publication by the fraternity was in accordance with the custom established by other professional and honorary journalistic organizations throughout the country.

The popularity of the publication has increased and decreased in proportion to the way in which the idiosyncrasies of its staff members and their senses of humor appealed to the students. The trainers are hoping that with the publication of the coming issue the "evil kitty," the "obnoxious Kat," or whatever else he may come to be called, will be established more firmly than ever upon sharp claws.

RUPP THREATENS TO MODIFY NEW
WILDCAT ATTACKWednesday Scrimmage Disappoints Mentor of University Net TeamFAST BREAK SYSTEM
NOT SO SUCCESSFULCombination Style of Play to Be Used Unless Men
Improve on CourtBy VIRGINIA DOUGHERTY
Sports Editor, The Kernel

The fast break system which has been rather dubiously accepted by basketball fans since its advent in Lexington this season is not proving so successful in action, a scrimmage held Wednesday in the Euclid avenue gymnasium indicated. Only two practice scrimmages have been held this year, so whether or not it will be successful is yet to be determined. However, if the university quintet is counting on using it in early season games, Rupp states that "some definite improvement will have to be made or else some new and modified system will have to be evolved."

Coach Rupp, who is sponsoring the fast break system at Kentucky, is not as optimistic about the new system as he was earlier in the year. The men are apt to revert to the previous training of the Illinois or the slow break system when confronted with opposition, and hence lose time and stop their drive, the new coach fears.

The fast break system being introduced by Coach Rupp hinges on the team's ability to move, think and act rapidly, in other words to take their opponents by storm and drive through to a goal. The attack is a system concentrated on speed and energy. The boys of the Big Blue team have spent the past two months training and practicing in order to have inexhaustible energy and speed. However, they have been accustomed to moving so slowly and calculatingly while using the Illinois system that when they finally get under fire the first game of the year they are likely to be as terrified by their own speed as their opponents and revert to the type of ball playing to which they have been accustomed.

"Half Fast, Half Slow" Following a scrimmage Wednesday, Rupp told the candidates for the team that a new system "half fast and half slow break" would have to be introduced unless they showed considerable improvement in a scrimmage to be held this afternoon in the gymnasium.

Three sophomores have shown marked ability during the practice sessions this year. They are Johnson and Worthington who have been most successful in defensive work, and Sales whose offensive work has been outstanding. "Little" McGinnis has been playing his usual good game and seems to adapt himself rather well to the new system. Trotter is a sensational shooter who promises to be one of Kentucky's best men.

Percentage of shots made at Wednesday's practice session follows:

McGinnis, 15; Spicer, 50; Sale, 50; Yates, 50; Johnson, 75; Worthington, 80; Trotter, 71; Bronston, 50. The above played 15 minutes each, outstanding among the 22 men who comprise the varsity squad. Judging from the percentages quoted, Coach Rupp's opinion seems to be most pessimistic. Such percentages made at the season's second scrimmage sound excellent to us.

Christmas Play

A., will present a Christmas play, "Why the Chimes Rang Out," at the Vesper Hour Sunday afternoon, December 14, at 4 o'clock, in the Memorial auditorium. These students make no claim to dramatic powers but are interested only in interpreting the Y. W. program through dramatics. The Y. M. C. A. has cooperated with the group in the production of this play.

The members of the cast are: Holger, Helen Glover; Steen, Frances True Brown; Bertel, Joe Ruttenutter; An Old Woman, Irma Priddy; A Priest, Robert Rudolph; Knights and Ladies, Y. M. and Y. W. Freshman Group.

Lexington Publication of 1807 to Be Reprinted in Exact Duplication

By BUENA C. MATHIS

A book printed in Lexington over a century ago has been recovered and is being reprinted by George Fowler of the Brown Book Shop, Louisville. Only three of the original copies remain in existence and it is with interest that historians and the public in general have learned of its reproduction.

"Life and Travels of John R. Shaw" by Himself was printed in Lexington in 1807 by Daniel Bradford. It is an autobiography of a British soldier who came to this country and later joined the American forces. His profession was that of a well-digger and in his travels through Kentucky he came into contact with many families which are prominent in the history of this state. It contains historical information of the nineteenth century which is unique in its personal references to events and personages of the times.

This book is being reprinted in exact duplicate and it's first edition is being managed in the same way as the original. As was the custom, subscribers promised to buy the book and their names were put in the back of the first edition. This list includes the names of many prominent Kentucky families among which are Todd, Dudley, Morton, Shelby, and Crittenden. The subscribers list for the reprinting contains names of persons from all over the United States. The binding, paper, and printing are to be exactly the same and photocopies of the original poems have been made. The frontispiece is a copy of the original wood-cut.

Libraries and institutions throughout the nation and especially in the bluegrass have subscribed to the book because of its value as an antique and as Kentucky history.

DYNASTY

In graceful ecstasy, the fir tree bends,
Murmuring softly between its branches.
Lightly, from its shimmering green, it sends,
A message with meaning full of chance.
With thoughts attuned to future mind,
Unheeding grace and beauty,
It sways in ever swirling kind
Of loveliness sans other thought
Of duty.
To obey its will—in masterful way,
So bring the pinions' mighty stride.
The house of dynasty is brought this way,
To bear upon all strains of life.

Reservations for 115 have been made and a capacity crowd is expected to be present in honor of the 1930 Wildcats.

The SuKy dinner is an annual affair and the entire varsity squad has been invited to attend with their guests, while the entire circle will act as host. Members of the university coaching staff and alumni of SuKy circle with their special guests are expected to attend the final banquet to the football team. Each year the pep organization entertains the team and any player who has remained with the varsity the entire year regardless of whether he has earned a letter or not, has been invited to attend. While the entire program has not been completed it is expected that members of the coaching staff will be called upon to address the gathering.

It is with the usual and expected tremors that I step into the shoes of Mr. Artery, who is a real humorist—to say little or nothing of his superb talents at unearthing the most vile scandal. We all no doubt have wondered just how he gained access to his brilliant store of knowledge of the "go-in-on" of the campus. I feel it a particular duty to disclose some of his underhand methods. Just wait!

The opening of the dance season in the midst of a holiday, was in truth, most inauspicious, (in spite of the fact that Delta Chi seemingly frightened all the chaperones away), but its prospects are brighter now. What with the SAE's barn dance, the Alpha Sig cubby hole party, and the Grand Ball thrown by the Kappas, last week end's schedule was a better follow up. This week the place is swamped under a deluge of jazz, punch and sticky floors, inane dance conversation; and other characteristic trials to take the patience of Job. By the way, how did the Alpha Gams ever decide to let the Kappas put one over on them by having a tea dance first?

Since the heroic return of Dick Brewer, erstwhile editor of the DICK copy of the Moonshiner on the newstands, there seems to have been quite a furor created at the Alpha Xi house. One of the sisters was slightly embarrassed. As has been said, when he dashed in on a previous date, and greeted her WARM-ly. Oh my, oh me, these dashing Texans!

Another hot one on the Alpha Gams that so far has been kept under cover because of an error in the papers. They dared to pull another fire alarm not long ago which was credited to the Alpha Xis in print. The firemen from the Woodland station are so well acquainted now that they walked right in and proceeded with their search without hesitation. Perhaps some of the rumors recently heard about this house of Greeks is true after all.

Tonight the Peanut Venders and the Piskin Heroes, with some seventy guests will cavort at the annual dance that the Nickel Snatchers give for the gridiron warriors. There ought to be a law against this. Besides, it sounds like a rough party.

Now that Kelly is twice an alternate captain, there have been no end of queries as to just what the title means, if any. Address all answers to the Kelly Fan Mail Club, Big White House, South Lime.

Chicago University
Adopts New SystemFaculty and Trustees Give Approval of Novel Examination Plan

The University of Chicago had taken steps to put its house in order before Dr. Flexner's work reached the bookstores. During his twelve months at Chicago as president, the 31-year-old Robert Maynard Hutchins has been developing a plan, whereby a student would get his degree whenever he could pass a comprehensive examination. On November 18, a day before the publication of Universities, Chicago trustees and faculty gave the Hutchins plan their approval.

President Hutchins believes in neither the conventional graduate school nor the traditional four-year undergraduate system which keeps a diploma on ice for any one who can amass a certain number of credits. He will therefore merge all non-professional departments into five large sections, concerned with the physical sciences, the social sciences, the humanities and so on. In these a student may work as he pleases, take his comprehensive examination whenever he is ready and after examination, continue in special classes if he wishes and if his standing is satisfactory. A genius, we are told may pass the examinations in two of three months; a brilliant student, in a year. Not-quite-bright students may loaf along four years before being dismissed without degrees.

Essentially, the plan rewards industry, without making it compulsory. Under it, the serious student may go at his own gait, rather than at the gait of those who yearn to be saxophone players or football coaches at jerkwater colleges. The one plain objection to the Hutchins plan is that it may tend to over-stress speed in education. Whether it does or not will become apparent during the next five years. At the end of this period the plan will be continued, modified or abandoned according to its effect upon students, teachers and research workers. At present it must be set down as an interesting and likely-looking experiment.

XCHANGES

By GERTRUDE EVANS

It seems queer that the sweet co-eds prefer marriage but this is true according to a clipping from Ohio Wesleyan University which says that marriage is the most popular career among their co-eds. Tabulations of a questionnaire answered by co-eds, show that over 50 per cent prefer housekeeping as vocation.

Here are a few snappy grid definitions taken from Basil Abrams, Savannah Press.

Holding—Ramble seat technique.

Forward Pass—(a) Illegal use of hands. (b) Hospitality to the guy sitting on the row in front.

Neutral Zone—Half the distance between the living room and kitchen.

Unnecessary Delay—A guy who waits until he's leaving for an excuse to kiss her.

Fair Catch—A visitor, male or female, who is unencumbered.

Disqualified Player—Victims of hallitis.

Downs—Condition which requires aspirin and tomato juice the next morning.

Interference—Any third party.

This is a world of imitation. From the first, the child is taught to do things as others do them. The most important crisis in the individual's life comes during the first year at college. If he is fundamentally intelligent, he gradually comes to have original ideas; if not, he continues to grope and gape. Originality is a stranger in most universities. College is not a place to mark time for a four-year period. It is not a simple interlude between youth and maturity; it is a period when the youthful mind must begin to function independently.—Syracuse Daily Orange.

Miss Ambrose will speak from the home economic viewpoint. During the assembly the members of the judging team who represented the university at the International Exposition, the state health champions, Allaine Hill and Duke Petit, a member of the champion 4-H club judging team, Wilford Graves, and a member of the team which represented the state of Kentucky at the National Dairy show in St. Louis, Boyd Wheeler, will be introduced. The last four students are freshmen who won their honors before entering the university.

During "Floppy" Forquer's senior year in high school, New Castle, Ky., he was captain of the track, football, basketball, and baseball teams.

At the University of Kentucky he has not only been outstanding in athletics, but has gained other honors. He is a member of Lamp and Cross, Scabbard and Blade, and O. D. K. Last summer he won the heavyweight boxing championship at Camp Knox.

"Floppy" is in the College of Education, but he does not contemplate teaching as his life work. If circumstances permit he may coach next year.

VIRGINIA DOUGHERTY

Meeting Virginia Dougherty in McVey hall one day I besieged her with my favorite questionnaire.

"I entered the university as a junior and my first honor was that of being the only girl on the debating team," she said.

"Aren't you also a member of the Kernel staff?" I asked.

"Yes, I was elected associate news editor and associate editor," said the lovely sponsor.

"What are your other activities?" I queried.

"Member of Phi Beta, girl's band, and Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalistic sorority," she replied.

"At what school were you a freshman?" I asked.

"I spent my first year at the University of Wyoming where I was a member of Phi Beta Phi, social sorority, debating team, orchestra, dramatics, swimming team, and the Branding Iron staff," she answered.

"Where did you attend high school?" I asked.

"I went to a girl's school in Salt Lake City, Rowland Hall. While there I also was a member of the debating team, dramatic club, choir, and art editor and literary editor of the annual staff," she enumerated for me.

During the interview I felt perfectly at ease because of the charming manner with which she met me. Possibly this characteristic is one of the many causes for her popularity on the university campus. Later, I learned that as another tribute, her photograph

GRANDMOTHER'S GRANDDAUGHTER

In spirit, at least, grandmother's granddaughter is not so different from grandmother when she was the same age. The characteristics of the grandmother, though amended and modified or enlarged, as the case may be, are recognizable as those of the grandmother.

Speed, that trait so often attributed to the granddaughter, was not lacking in her ancestor. Numerous little old ladies gleefully tell of the times when they delighted in racing their horses when their elders weren't looking.

It must be admitted that our grandmothers were encumbered with layer upon layer of clothing, which endeavored to curb their effervescent spirits. The era in which they lived called for minute care and attention to their attire, which resulted in frills and furbelows inside and out. Their toilets, as their costumes were called, were carefully designated as morning, afternoon, walking, equestrian, opera, evening, boudoir, and various other types.

Laces, flowers, newly designed taffetas, stiff and ruffled materials were used to make the frilly caps, gowns, underskirts (of which they often wore two, three, or four) and gloves.

The home, with occasional industrious ladies trying their hand at sewing, cooking, teaching or writing, provided industry and professions for grandmother. There is no end to the professions in which granddaughter may enter. If she desires, she may live with grimy hands in the work of an engineer, a geologist, a mechanic, or other industrialists. She may employ her natural prerogative or curiosity in the duties of journalist, social service worker, in an intelligence office, or as her grandmother, in the rooms of the nation's schools.

The world's citizens must be fed, so granddaughter enters the business of raising, preparing, selling, or managing the dispensation of food. There is a vast variety of positions open to granddaughter, from which she may choose her life work.

Oddly, and yet not so unexpectedly, granddaughter continues to follow the example set by grandmother, and chooses to take on a husband, a home, and whatnot, with all the attached cares and duties. Investigations, those erstwhile institutions of the Hoover administration, have resulted in figures showing that more than eighty per cent of the college women of America prefer a home to business.

All of which upholds the fact that the granddaughter of 1930 is forsaking the life of a tomboy, which she has led for the past ten years, and assaying the charm and sophistication of her grandmother. She will continue to take advantage of opportunities which have been accorded her, and which her grandmother did not have.

The right to education, political activity, and social equality with the opposite sex are concessions which are not likely to be relinquished by granddaughter now, or in the future. It is absurd to consider that such a condition as formerly existed would be prevalent again.

Suffice it to say that grandmother's granddaughter is an improved edition of her beloved forerunner.

THETA SIGMA PHI, A WORKING ORGANIZATION

Women in journalism are each day becoming more numerous, capable and outstanding. Positions on newspapers which were once thought only for the stronger sex are being filled with great success by women.

Theta Sigma Phi, honorary and professional journalistic fraternity for women, enjoys the honor of having among its members many prominent personages of literature, newspaper work and college administration. Such names as Zona Gale, Honore Willie Morrow, Sophie Kerr, Dorothy Dix, Blanche Colton Williams, Mary Hastings Bradley, Temple Bailey, and scores of others are members of this association of women interested in journalism.

Theta Sigma Phi is unique in that it is both an honorary and a professional fraternity. It is also a working organization of women. These descriptive adjectives as applied to Theta Sigma Phi mean: "honorary" as distinguished from social; "professional" as distinguished from amateur; "working organization" meaning a society that seeks to accomplish definite things as opposed to an organization individually active but achieving nothing as a body.

In other words, Theta Sigma Phi does not stop at being merely honorary, but seeks to make definite contribution to the cause of better journalism and to assist its members to real achievement in the field of letters.

The purposes of Theta Sigma Phi are threefold: to unite in the bonds of good fellowship, college trained women either engaging in or purposing to engage in the profession of journalism; to confer honor upon women who distinguish themselves in journalism either as undergraduates or as professionals; to accomplish definite achievement as an organization in the field of letters calculated to raise the standard of journalism, to improve the working conditions for women of the profession, and to inspire the individual to greater effort.

In order to stimulate interest in research among women students of journalism and to make a valuable contribution to the annals and the literature of the profession of journalism, Theta Sigma Phi offers each year a prize of $100 for the best essay on some phase of woman's work in journalism. The judges are nationally prominent persons, and much interest is manifested in this prize which is open to any woman student in an institution in which there is a chapter of the fraternity.

The members of Chi chapter on this campus are outstanding students, active in all phases of university life. With this issue of the Kernel they are observing their annual custom of editing the paper without the help of the members of the opposite sex.

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

Until recently, women's organizations on the University of Kentucky campus have been subordinated. Many have been established, but in name only. Recently, these organizations have gained in importance and have risen to prominence in the eyes of the students.

Many attribute this subordination to lack of interest on the part of the participants. Because of the military atmosphere, the men students seem to have a more patriotic viewpoint, and, when organized, work together for the good of the cause. The women construct excellent programs but are unable to carry them out because of a lack of enthusiasm.

For example, it has been said that the Women's Student Government Association on the Kentucky campus is the best in theory of any college in the United States—but in theory only. Girls will not cooperate to make this theory effective. When questioned they reply that because of faculty interference they are unable to govern as they see fit and lose all responsibility for the whole affair. No doubt the faculty often wonders what would happen if they didn't interfere. In dormitories, especially, student government executives are constantly attempting to stay on the good side of the chaperones and the girls too, giving little thought to the organization as a whole.

Some girls suggest that there isn't enough spare time to devote to these organizations because of a crowded student life. Others enter with the spirit of needing an activity. Such attitudes cannot be expected to promote interest. Persons find that there is always time to do that which appeals to them.

To those who have an executive ability, these societies offer a way of exemplifying it. They are a means of self-expression to the student who otherwise might be subjugated by the prevailing opinion of fellow workers. Often the leaders of these groups are those who are unknown in other fields.

As a whole, women's organizations are beneficial and will be more so as they gain prominence among the campus activities. As an incentive, a goal to be reached, or an honor to be gained, they cannot be surpassed. The University of Kentucky is reputed as a democratic institution. It is in the power of the students to set an example for women students of other schools. Be a booster and enter into the spirit of the organization to which you are a member.

STUDENTS-FACULTY CONFERENCE

By MARGARET LEWIS

On December 27 at Hotel Book-Cadillac, Detroit, Michigan, will begin the opening session of the National Student-Faculty Conference. The purpose of this conference is to provide an opportunity for consultation and sharing of experience concerning the place of religion and the agencies of religion in college and university life.

As far back as 1926 this conference has been in the making. Students and faculty from all parts of the country have been thinking on the things that draw them together and the things that keep them apart. On December 27 will be the culmination of all of these thoughts and experiences, and the outcome is something to be watched.

Opportunity will be afforded for daily plenary sessions and for addresses in the field of education, religion, and social readjustments. The reports from seven commissions, which have been collecting data for several months, will be used as a basis of discussion in the conference. The eyes of the student and faculty world are being turned on this conference because of its educational as well as religious value. There can be no doubt of the constructiveness of such a conference, and the value each local campus will receive in improving its own student-faculty relationships.

PETITION TO MY MASTER

Look not, beloved,
To my faults.
Be blind, beloved,
Yea—be kind!
Or else master of my heart,
Seeing the error of my ways,
Say your hope allays
Their very being.

Love sees only heart to heart
Beloved.

NATURE'S LOVE

I walked the hill one night long passed
'Twas dark and clouds were in the sky.
Her hoary locks Dame Nature had
But lately shed. Her eyes were filled
With tears; perhaps of sorrow or
Regret because she must begin
Anew and live the long year through

She decked herself in gentle green,
Besprigged with lovely locust bloom.
Her breath was fresh with faint perfume;
Her eyes were dark with brooding thought,
As someone she awaited there.
Her fireflies lit my way
Unto our hidden rendezvous.

I sat upon a low flat stone
Each blade of grass my feet caressed.
My head lay quiet upon her breast.
Thus Nature gave and gave and gave
And no return she asked but that
I be her own eternally.

Kentucky Branch Organized By Col. Dick Johnson, Engineering Graduate

In 1890, under the leadership of Col. Dick Johnson, of the College of Engineering, a branch of the Y. M. C. A. was organized at the University of Kentucky, and, in the 40 years that have ensued, it has grown to be one of the most influential of the campus organizations, although it is the only one of such organizations to have a definite religious purpose. The Y. M. C. A. was founded to be of service to all the students, and to promote the highest ideals among them.

The service of the organization is not limited to the members only, who now number 346, but it attempts to aid any student in any problem, whether financial, social, or spiritual, which he may present. At the completion of the present Alumni hall in 1901, the "Y" established its headquarters on the second floor of the building and installed reading and recreation rooms. In 1911, due to the rapid growth of the organization, it was found necessary to employ Mr. E. L. Hall as full-time secretary. Within a few years, Mr. Hall was transferred to the Chinese branch of the Y. M. C. A. and, Mr. James Parks, present commonwealth attorney of Fayette county, filled the position. In 1920, Bart M. Peak, present secretary of the Association, came to the university, and, with the exception of one year, has served continuously since then.

91% of the energy we use demands VALVES

"Eighty-seven per cent of the energy we use in our daily life . . . heat energy as well as mechanical energy, exclusive of that produced in our own bodies and brains . . . is derived from the hydrocarbon chain, coal, oil, and gas. Water power yields 4%, firewood 6%, work animals 3%."

GEORGE OTIS SMITH, U. S. Geological Survey

Take away the 87% of energy now extracted from coal, oil, and gas . . . and we would be back in the year 1855 . . . the year Crane Co. was founded. Take valves and fittings away, and we would be deprived not of 87 but of 91%. For from water power as well as from coal, gas, and oil, energy is almost never extracted in the modern world but valves and fittings enter into the process.

It is significant that the history of Crane Co. and the history of modern utilization of natural energy, cover almost exactly the same period. Many years ago, Crane metallurgists and engineers began the development of piping materials for each new need as it appeared. The years since have seen every Crane resource . . . research, engineering, production . . . devoted to supplying materials that would keep the road to progress open.

What Crane has learned and the materials that it has developed will be of vital interest to you after you leave school. Let us send you the story of research in piping metals, "Pioneering in Science."

SQUAD PRACTICES FOR BASKETBALL

Coach "Baldy" Glib and 30 aspiring and perspiring athletes are working strenuously every night in the Euclid avenue gymnasium in anticipation of the basketball season. They also have been scrimmaging Coach Rupp's Big Blue varsity five with disastrous results to themselves, the varsity being too "hot" to handle at present.

As yet, there are no great stars present on the frosh squad, but the majority of candidates for the team are capable players, according to Coach Glib. Elimination of those candidates not deemed capable of making the team is expected to begin soon, possibly at the practice session tonight.

Coach Glib is following the varsity coach's fast-break system this year. It is much easier coaching than the Illinois slow-break style of play, he said, because most of the players have been accustomed to the fast-break in high school play.

Thirty additional numeral men were announced the past week by the athletic department. The full list of frosh numeral men now is as follows:

J. Allen, L. Asher, F. Atkinson, R. Angelucci, S. Bach, J. Barber, C. Ball, R. Ball, L. Barker, W. Barrera, H. H. Beard, C. H. Blemmer, F. E. Caddy, T. Cassidy, L. Cloyd, J. Demings, L. Fiddler, C. Galloway, S. C. Garwin, R. Goodman, F. A. Hibbs, E. Settle, T. Rawlett, H. S. Traynor, R. Hickey, J. W. Jones, P. Jean, L. Judd, B. Jacobs, H. Keys, Kirby, R. Kercheval, E. McConachie, B. Mcowell, H. W. Mattingly, F. Miller, P. K. Myers, Ken Nicholson, S. C. Osborn, L. O. Parrish, K. S. Pate, W. Palin, H. Pribble, J. P. Price, R. Reid, E. Shanklin, J. Schoopman, F. Spencer, J. F. Staples, S. W. Martin Has Article In Petroleum News

Prof. James Martin, director of the bureau of business research of the College of Commerce has published an article in this week's edition of the National Petroleum News. The article was written with the assistance of Mr. Marshall Harris, and deals with the effect of the high rate of gasoline tax as compared with low rates on the consumption of gasoline.

Mr. Martin has written five articles, two of which have already been published, one to appear this week, and the others to appear in the near future.

Fencing Tourney To Be Held in Gym

Competition Is Based on Honor System; Round Robin Will Be January 9

The department of intramural athletics under the direction of Mr. Applebaum will sponsor a fencing tournament beginning Friday night, January 9, in the Men's gymnasium. Any student in the fencing classes of the university may enter the contest.

There will be three bouts in the tournament, in the first of which approximately 36 men are expected to enter. In this round 18 men will be eliminated, and the remaining 18 will enter the second bout. The nine winners of this round will enter the third bout, which will be a round robin affair. Each of the nine contestants must fence the eight others in order to determine the winner of the tournament.

The purpose of the fencing tournament is twofold to aid the men physically and to promote good sportsmanship. The honor system will be used in determining the contest winner since there will be no judges. Those participating in the tournament must report the points made at the end of each bout to the committee in charge, which will consist of Mr. Applebaum, Mr. Hackensmith, Mr. Potter, and Mr. Hanson.

The first man making three touches or points in each round is the winner and is then eligible to fence with another winner. The champion of the entire tournament will be presented a silver cup by the department of intramural athletics, and those winning second, third, and fourth places will be given medals.

Rose and Forquer To Play in Charity Tilt

Conrad Rose, guard on the University of Kentucky football team, who graduates in June, received an invitation yesterday to participate in the charity football game that will be played in New York, Christmas day, between picked eleven from the midwest and east. Rose wired his acceptance.

Captain Floppy Forquer, who also finished his grid career at the University of Kentucky this season, had already received an invitation.

Wreckers Will Meet Sigma Chis for Intramural Crown

Intramural Games to End Saturday Afternoon on Stoll Field

EACH TEAM EXPRESSES CONFIDENCE IN SELVES Results of Preliminary Games Of Twenty Teams Are Announced

The final game of the Intramural Football tournament for the championship of the university will be played on Stoll field Saturday afternoon between the "Wrecking Crew," independent team from Bradley hall, and the Sigma Chis. The tilt is scheduled to begin at 2 o'clock and the boys of both teams vow that they will be victorious. The tournament has been in progress for more than two weeks and by the process of elimination the chase has been narrowed down to the two teams. Sixteen organizations entered the race and the four independent teams brought the total to 20.

The competition among the different fraternities and independent teams has surpassed even the most optimistic expectation with the rivalry reaching fever heat. The crowds have been unusually large and the finals are expected to attract a crowd comparable to those attending a regular game.

The fraternity championship was decided last Wednesday when the ATO's engaged the Sigma Chis in a close battle. The Sigma Chis emerged with the greater portion of the score being chalked to their credit but with the margin of victory being only by the count of 3 to 2. The protest of the ATO's concerning the legality of the first down that spelled victory for their opponents was dropped when it was decided that it should have been made on the playing field.

Saturday's game is the culmination of a brilliant intramural season, for volleyball, handball and football. The department will open its winter season shortly after exams with basketball and diamond ball.

The probable line-up for Saturday's game follows:

Wrecking Crew Pos.	Sigma Chi
Bailey	RE.
Greathouse	RT.
Kinkad	RG.
Greenquist	LG.
Kirkman	LT.
Chaney	LE.
Stone	QB.
Wallace	LH.
Hoffman	RH.
Hogue	FB.
Simmons	Davidson

The scores of the intramural football games follow:

Independents: Wrecking Crew, 6; Breckinridge hall, 0. Engineers, 3; Independents, 2.

Fraternities: Sigma Nu, 1; Phi Sigs, 2; S. A. E., 6; Phi Tau, 0; Delta Chi, 3; Alpha Sigs, 4; A. T. O., 2.

U. K. to Play Charity Game With Marshall

Marshall College, of Huntington, W. Va., has accepted the University of Kentucky's invitation to play a basketball game here for the unemployment fund being raised by a committee appointed by Mayor James O'Brien. The tilt will take place Saturday night, December 27. The University of Kentucky agreed to give all its share of the gate receipts of this game to charity. The only expenses required by Marshall College will be the sum required to make the trip down here, about $165. The balance of the proceeds will be turned over to the unemployment fund.

N. I. B. Tournament Not to Be This Year

The National Interscholastic Basketball tournament, which meets each year in Chicago, has been discontinued according to recent announcement made by Amos Alonzo Stagg, originator of the event. Mr. Stagg said that "It has developed to the point where there is no longer any necessity for it and will not be renewed."

This tournament, in which the Kentucky teams played such an important part, was started in 1917 and has been held annually with the exception of the two years the war interfered.

After an attack made by the National Federation of High School Athletic Association and the North Central Conference of Colleges and Secondary Schools, a committee met last spring to form a decision.

Former U. K. Stars Will Play Eastern

An independent net team composed of former University of Kentucky basketball stars will meet the Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College Maroons on the Madison high school floor at Richmond tonight at 7 o'clock. It will be the first game played by the new net team, known as the Kentucky Greyhounds.

The Greyhounds boast one of the strongest lineups any independent team has presented in central Kentucky in several years, boasting of such stars as McBrayer, all-Southern guard; "Big" McGinnis, Stanley Milward, Cecil Combs and Hayes

"Big Money," a Pathe picture under the direction of Russell Mack, featuring Eddie Quilian and Robert Armstrong, is now playing at the Ben Ali. It presents a great satire on gangsterism and is only fair entertainment. There are a few laughs and a few thrills, but Eddie Quilian is a misfit for his part as a gangster. He takes the part remarkably well, but his type is too young for such a character.

William Farnum has returned to the screen and along with him Norma Talmadge makes a decided improvement over her first "talkie," "Lights of New York." "Madam Du Barry" depicts a story of a beautiful young milliner who strikes the fancy of a gambler who uses her as a decoy to his gambling den. There she meets the king who is immediately enamored with her charms. Conrad Nagel takes the part of a lieutenant in the king's army. The real thread of a love story which runs throughout the whole play is that of this dashing young man and Du Barry. The trend of the story is very melodramatic. It is now playing at the Kentucky.

Charles "Buddy" Rogers in "Along

Came Youth" will open at the Kentucky Saturday. It is under the direction of Lloyd Carnigan and Norman McLeod and is taken from the story by George Marion, Jr.

"Outward Bound," now playing at the Strand, is featuring Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Alec B. Francis, Leslie Howard, and Helen Chandler. It is a Warner Brothers picture and under the direction of Robert Milton. The entertainment should be good.

The State theater opens Friday with Buck Jones in "Shadow Ranch" with the famous dog Rin-Tin-Tin as the main feature. As dog pictures of the "frozen north" go, this one should not be any worse than any of the rest of them.

Sunday, "Min and Bill," a Metro-Goldwyn Mayer production under the direction of George Hill, will open at the Ben Ali. Marie Dressler and Wallace Berry are co-starring to make a great triumph for the combine. The acting is excellent and the play is a successful mixture of tragedy and comedy without being either. Marjorie Rambeau, memorable for "Her Man," does some more real acting. The story concerns a wharf-rat who mothers a girl whose real mother is one of the famous two-dollar variety. Wallace Berry is seen as a friend of Min's or a sort of lover in a crude manner. Should be sure-fire entertainment, don't miss it.

Will Rogers returns again and as usual makes a great hit. He is supported by Louise Dresser in "Lightnin'," a Fox production under the direction of Henry King, which opens at the Strand Sunday. The part of "Lightnin' Bill" Jones, manager of a hotel in Reno, is said to be the life-long ambition of Will Rogers. This picture is taken from the old play which Frank Bacon originally popularized with his performance. The story contains much homely philosophy and is a comedy set on the dividing line of California and Nevada. Many amusing situations are to be found and Rogers presents a delightful character sketch. The entertainment will be most excellent. You'd better not miss it, or you will be sorry.

Miss Ollie Depew Writes Book on "The Relationship Between Dog and Master"

Miss Ollie Depew whose book on "The Relationship Between Dog and Master" has been accepted for publication next year by the Century Publishing Company collected much of her material at the University of Kentucky, where she was a student in the years 1920-1923.

Miss Depew majored in English and minored in history and political science. She received her A. B. degree from the college of Arts and Sciences in 1922 and her M. A. degree in 1923. Miss Depew is an English instructor at Murray College at the present time.

The research covered a period of approximately 50 years, and about 200 articles were examined on the subject. The collection includes 24 essays by such writers as Booth Tarkington, Christopher Morley, Agnes Repplier, and W. H. Hudson. Ten of the 24 authors are professional writers and four are college professors. The material was collected from the University of Kentucky library, the Lexington library, and the library of Murray State college.

Specialize to Keep Health Is Advice Of Newspaper Men

If you want to keep your health and remain a newspaper man, take up a specialty, George William Russell, "A. E.," recently told a student of the University of Missouri school of journalism.

"The life of the every day journalist—never settled, always going to and fro, without any object in life—is detrimental to your physical health," he said.

"Whatever you do, make it a point to specialize in some certain field, literature, drama, history, sciences, industry, or what not. This way you will have an opportunity, not only to become known in the world, but also to keep yourself in physically good condition and live a better life.

"If you specialize, let us say in drama, when an editor needs an article written on a certain subject pertaining to that field, he will be reminded that you are a specialist on it. He will undoubtedly send to you for such a story. It is the same in all other lines of journalism where specialization may be worked out."

Sneers Snickers Scandal

By WILLIAM ARDERY

Speaking over radio station WROL at Knoxville after the game Tom Riley, dramatic critic, Stroller immense canine and university announcer, "Well folks, I reckon you know that I'm from Lexington by this time." Sho! Sho!

We are utterly perplexed at the antiquity of the technique which is practiced by ettes at the University of Kentucky. The same old line, the same ancient lies, the same primordial, silly, unstudied, indelicate flattery. We often wonder if the "dread bid strong man" stuff is handed down from generation to generation or if every girl finds from experimentation that it hardly ever fails.

And necking—it should be a fine art by this time but instead is becoming constantly more cram, more purely physical, and more monotonous.

And hospitality—now it has degenerated into forcing a smile for unwelcome guests, insisting that they eat food they do not want, and feeling vastly relieved when they have departed.

The truly sophisticated, we have heard, do not exclude themselves from society and speculate on the innate stupidity of mankind. Rather they associate with their fellow animals and remain unmoved at every new evidence of that stupidity.

When you find a member of the proletariat referring to his fellows as revoltingly proletarian then you have truly a Democracy.

Well morons—did you miss us at the Kappa tea party? You missed missing something if you did not— which all goes to prove that the Kappas are not even luke warm, like the Chi Omegas. Yeah, smarties you guessed it, we were the only ones in the state of Kentucky who didn't get a bid.

We have decided to classify by the order of merit system every sorority which we deem all meritorious. The following are the houses in the order of their importance.

- (1) Three triangles.
- (2) C. and O. railroad girls.
- (3) Alpha Deltas.
- (4) Ineligible Ettes (occasionally referred to as "Kappas").
- (5) Kadies.
- (6) Delta Zeta and Alpha Zees (tie).
- (7) Sigma Nu's.

We selected the Triple Deltas for first place because we do not know them. The Chi Omegas ran a close second due to their inimitable Venus and their charming way of denouncing the Kappas. Politics put the alpha Gammas third. The Kappas took fourth on their ability to marry off the members. The others also ran except the Sigma Nu's and they came last without even entering the competition—no real girl would belong to them.

Habits of Women Are Study Topic

Study of the habits of women, who are buying more intelligently today than ever before, has become an important part of the advertising and merchandising program of national advertisers, Miss Mary Barber, director of home economics and educational department of the Kellogg Company, told a joint meeting of the Chicago Advertising Council and the Women's Advertising Club. Miss Josephine Snapp presided.

"Many national advertisers are employing women as home economics directors as a means of supplementing their printed advertising," said Miss Barber. "These departments engage in a research work that often brings forth important contributions to merchandising science."

Miss Barber described in detail the methods of promotion employed by the Kellogg Company and stated that every piece of advertising was submitted to the home economics department for approval from a nutrition point of view. She touched on work being done by other companies along the same lines.
